

www.usatoday.com

Life

SECTION D

Tuesday, February 5, 2008

Lifeline

For entertainment news as it happens,
visit the Lifeline Live blog at life.usatoday.com.

Name that album

Which disc do you think deserves to win best album at Sunday's Grammy Awards?

Vote at life.usatoday.com.

Winehouse might make the Grammys

Singer Amy Winehouse, 24, met officials at the U.S. Embassy in London on Monday to discuss obtaining a visa. Winehouse, who checked into rehab last month, is scheduled to perform at Sunday's Grammy ceremony (CBS, 8 ET/PT), where she is nominated for six awards. But her spokesman says no decision has been made about the appearance.

Singer turns 18, then turns out the vote

To celebrate turning 18 this past Sunday, Sean Kingston has created a new version of Alice Cooper's I'm Eighteen. Recorded in Los Angeles for the youth voting initiative Declare Yourself, the song makes its debut today — Super Tuesday — on iTunes as a free download to encourage 18-year-olds to register and vote.

Talk about an award

Jenna Bush, Stephen Colbert and Bill Clinton are among finalists up for an Audie, the most prestigious award of the audio-book world. Winners will be announced May 30 at the Audio Publishers Association's gala in Los Angeles.